6 Top tips for supporting your child online

1 – Have a conversation and get to know what your child likes to do online and how going online makes them feel. Visit our www.childnet.com/parents-and-carers for conversation starters.

2 – Establish boundaries and routines for the whole family when using technology and going online. This could include where devices are kept, how long they are used and when.

3 – Be clear on strategies your child can use if something worries or upsets them online. This could be how to get support, who to talk to or turning over the device and get help.

4 – Get to know the safety features on devices in your home. There are features on devices, wifi, phone networks and entertainment services. See the guides on the right for help.

5 – Be curious not furious. It can be really worrying if your child sees something unexpected or inappropriate online but try to remain calm whilst supporting your child. This reaction will help them to feel that they can come to you again.

6 – Keep the conversation going. It's important to keep talking about online safety. Find quiet moments together or use current news stories as a way of approaching the subject again.

5. Where do I go to make a report?

Child Exploitation and Online Protection Command (CEOP) - A police agency tackling child abuse online, where you can report any concerns about the behaviour of someone online towards a child.

www.ceop.police.uk

CEOP's Think U Know website has information and resources for children and parents as well as a link to report any concerns.
